Washington news—Increase in the gold reserve; examinations in Internal Revenue Service; argument concluded in the Income Tax case. —A new shipping route from New York to Richmond, Tenn. —Meeting of the executive committee of the Democratic party of Texas. —Trouble in South Carolina—nullification of the State Dispersal law and Registration act. By Evans declares he will continue to seize liquor; the Dispensary case to go to U. S. Supreme Court. —A large steamship to be built for the Plant Line.

Gov. Turner, of Tennessee, yesterday took the oath of office for another two years. —John F. T. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., has made an assignment. —The bookkeeper of the defunct bank at Lexington, Va., was yesterday sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. —Reports from the West Virginia coal fields say all is quiet. —Chicago grain and provision market. —Base ball games played yesterday. —Cotton spots and futures.

Money on call was easy at 1 1/4 per cent, last loan at 1 1/2 per cent, and closing offering at 1 1/4 per cent. cotton quiet; middling 7 1/16 cents; Southern flour quiet and steady; common to fair extra $3.35 to $3.10; good to choice do. $3.20 to $3.00; wheat dull and firmer; No. 2 red in store and at elevator 97 1/2 cents; soft 68 cents; corn firm and moderately active; No. 2 at elevator 97 1/2 cents; soft 68 1/2 cents; spirits turpentine dull but steady at 30 1/2 cents; rosin firm; strained common to good $1.95 to $1.55.

A New Orleans woman has started a school in Chicago to teach Chicago women how to talk. When she gets through with that she might start another school to teach them how to stop; a much more difficult art for some of them to acquire.

The annual summer gold drain will soon begin and the indications are that it will be larger than usual. Engagements for passage on one of the principal lines running from New York are 50 per cent greater than they were at this time last year.

About the meanness thing that Mrs. Lease has accused ex-Governor Lewelling, of Kansas, of, is selling bad butter to the State Lunatic Asylum. The man who would palm off bad butter on a poor lunatic ought to be rolled in it and spread out in the sun to bake.

Maryland courts do not take kindly to the hypnotic plea in murder cases. A fellow charged with the murder of a little girl tried it one day, and the jury found him guilty, and that the right thing to do was to let the sheriff try his hand at hypnotizing him in the usual way.

As an indication of the confidence that the nations of the earth have in each other, the standing armies of the world, in peace times, number about 3,700,000 men, which are kept simply to watch and be prepared to take advantage of opportunities to do some robbery or something of that sort.

Mr. Henry M. Flagler, the millionaire, enjoys the recreation of building fine hotels so much that in addition to the three daisies he already has at St. Augustine, Fla., he is going to build another, large enough to accommodate two hundred guests, at Palm Beach, Fla. It will be built this summer and be finished for business by next winter.

Rosa Whiteface, a pretty Indian girl, 17 years old, in Kansas, objects to being sold by her father to an old fellow of 70 who already has a large stock of wives on hand, for fifteen ponies. We don't wonder. At the present prices of horses out West any self-respecting Indian girl should object to being valued so low as to be traded off for fifteen ponies.

John Faragher, a Chicago man, has no more faith in cats now than he had in banks when he quit depositing in them because he lost a pile of money in one that burst. When he went to his improvised bank the other day he found that the rats had burglarized it and chewed up about a thousand dollars worth of bills to stuff their beds with.

neighbors conclude that there was a screw loose in his head? But that would be about as sensible as buying for the stock which would be made the crop, when that feed could be made much more cheaply than it can be bought. If we add to the amount spent for feed the amount annually spent for horses and mules, every one of which could be raised by our own farmers, there would be another big sum to be added to the $100,000,000 spent for food supplies.

This bill would take in the neighborhood of 3,400,000 bales of 60 pounds each, or about one-third of last year's crop, that much cotton practically given away. Southern farmers need never expect to prosper with such a drain as that upon them whatever the price of cotton or tobacco may be.

MINOR MENTION.

We have had a striking illustration within the past few weeks of the power of Trusts and how much the people are at their mercy, for they have been operating not on the luxuries, the things that are used by the few and the rich, but on the necessities of life, the things that are used by all. These operations began when the Standard Oil Company boomed oil and ran crude oil up from about ninety-five cents a barrel to about two dollars and a half, which gave it an excuse for adding five or six cents a gallon to the refined oil it sold, by which operation it is said it cleared about $50,000,000, and then it knocked the bottom out of the boom, and let oil drop to about where it started from. The reason assigned (they always give reasons for these grabs) was the falling off in production, but we haven't seen any account of much increase in production between the time the boom was started and the time when the bottom fell out, and it is reasonable to suppose that the decreased production reason was a fake. Then the beef combine tried its hand, and ran beef up so high that people of ordinary means had to quit eating it. That re-acted on the combine and prevented it from raking in as big a pile as it calculated on. The reason for this, too, was the falling off in the number of beef cattle, a discovery that they don't seem to have made until they got their packing houses stocked with beef. Following their example the Leather Trust gave leather a boost, and the result is that every one who wears shoes pays more for them now than they did a few weeks ago. Right on the heels of these the flour manipulators took a whack at wheat, and ran flour up about fifty cents a barrel. But in all these operations, while the public was bled, the producer of oil, the raiser of cattle and the grower of wheat didn't profit a dollar by it.

The McKinleyites declare that the protective duties in our new tariff are too low to protect our home manufacturers against foreign competition, and yet under it there has been a great increase of business in our manufacturing for home consumption, and also a marked increase in our exports of manufactured goods, amounting to nearly $5,000,000 for the quarter ending March 31st over the corresponding period of last year. We are making large gains in our exports to the South American and Central American countries, and our manufacturers are going even into free trade England and competing in some lines of goods with the manufacturers there. This is notably the case in shoes, which are finding large sales in England, and in carpets, of which England had until the past year almost undisputed sway. In 1883 our manufacturers shipped 18,631 yards of ingrain carpet to Europe; in 1894 they shipped 287,188 yards, which sold for $260,000, or 87 cents per yard. It is doubtful if the same quality of carpet could be bought in this country at that price. These goods are sold not only in England, but in France, Germany and in other countries where wages are low. This is the "pauper labor" against which the protectionists declared our workmen must be protected to keep them from starving. With this star the indications are that the new tariff is panning out pretty well, and that after it has had a fair show we will hear no more about "protection for protection's sake."

There is a good deal of hard sense in the following, which we clip from the Chicago Record, a paper independent in its politics:

"The fact is the monetary situation is too serious to be made the subject of ridicule by either faction, the arguments for or against either the single gold standard or free silver coinage lose all weight when the newspapers giving them devote their most prominent pages to the caricatures which insult the very people whose arguments are designed to influence. It is exceedingly difficult to convince a man by appeals to his reason, judgment or patriotism when he is being assailed by an ignoramus."

This is particularly appropriate for the consideration of Democrats who differ on the silver question and imagine that they are strengthening the side they espouse by bandying epithets at those who differ from them. This is a question in which not only the people as a whole are interested, but every individual however exalted or however humble his position may be, whether he be the possessor of millions or earn his daily bread in the sweat of his face, and it should be discussed dispassionately and with an honest purpose to arrive at the best solution as to what would be best for this or for that class, and for the few, but for the people as a whole, and "silver-crack" or "gold-bug" logic will not do that.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Europe does not for a moment insinuate that Japan is not the victor, but she insists just the same in having a word or two to say about the spoils.—Wash. Star, Ind.

The fact that Great Britain's dignity when damaged by a small Republic is valued at $2,000 is no reason for thinking that it is worth that much when injured by a nation of Great Britain's size.—Chicago Record, Ind.

The Delaware Legislature has fixed on Thursday next for adjournment, and unless the Senatorial deadlock shall be loosed in the meanwhile the outcome will be the appointment of a Democrat by the Governor—a result which might be politically momentous, in view of the fact that the Senate will be so nearly equally divided between the two main parties.—Phil. Record, Dem.

How Democratic gold-standard papers can charge Democratic silver money with being "Populist" because they are for free silver which was in the Populist platform, while these same gold papers advocated the income tax which was also in the Populist platform, we leave for them to reflect upon.

BOOK NOTICES.

In the May number of McClure's Magazine the interestingly written and splendidly illustrated biography of Napoleon is continued, in which there is a fine list of contents covering many subjects, and well illustrated, "Human Documents," which presents sketches of prominent personages in this and other countries is one of the special and instructive features of this publication. Published by S. S. McClure, No. 30 LaFayette Street, New York.

We are in receipt of an interesting story entitled "Under the Man-Fig," by M. E. Davis, author of several popular stories, published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass. It is a book of 93 pages, printed in large clear type, neatly and substantially bound, in cloth, price $1.95.

The reader will find in The Electric Magazine for May, a splendid selection of articles from the leading European periodicals, each presenting interesting features, and the list condensing within small space the cream of all. Published by E. R. Pelton, 144 Eighth Street, New York.

The physician and medical student will find the May Number of The North Carolina Medical Journal a valuable one, presenting an interesting list of contributed and editorial papers. Edited by Robert D. Jewett, M. D., Wilmington, N. C.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

—Jacksonville Times: Mr. R. R. Midgett, a highly respected resident of Sneads Ferry, died at his home last Saturday morning from pneumonia. Deceased was about 45 years of age.

—Raleigh Visitor: John B. Hussey, of Washington, D. C., private secretary of Senator Marion Butler, to-day brought suit against the News and Observer for criminal libel.

—Winston Sentinel: Farmers come into town these days with a cheerful countenance and happiness depicted on every feature. They say there will be an abundance of fruit and crops every known, for a number of trees were killed last year by the freeze, but all that are living are loaded with all they can stand.

—Charlotte News: It is only within the past two years that the wild strawberry crop has been attracting any sort of attention. Lately, the wild berry in this section, by some kind of nature, has not only become wonderfully abundant, but the berries have improved in size and flavor until they almost rival the cultivated berry. The crop this year is being marketed in large quantities, and will be tremendously so, as the fields are covered with berry laden plants.

—Windsor Ledger: The trial of John E. Lassiter for the murder of his wife, Mrs. S. R. Lassiter, began yesterday morning of this week in the court house. After a long and exhaustive examination of the witnesses for the prosecution the Solicitor asked to be allowed to submit to a verdict of not guilty, as there was not enough evidence to convict John E. Lassiter walked forth a free man.

—Newbern Journal: The depot and repair yard of the river and harbor improvements for this section is being moved from Washington, N. C., to Newbern, N. C. It is being moved on account of this point being more central. This yard is the headquarters for all the steamers, snag-boats and dredges belonging to the Government operating in the district from Hatteras to New River. The boats are repaired and new boats built at the yard. A portion of Moore & Brady's Union Point property has been rented for this purpose, and the U. S. steamer "General Wilkes" has gone to Washington after a load of material.

—Wilmington Journal: The new snag-boat to be built at once, and there would be built speedily. Whatever work is done will mean that much more work in Newbern and more money will be increased trade for Newbern, as it will cause nearly all the supplies to be purchased here.

TWINKLINGS.

—Weeks:—Well, how are things over in Boston? Have they named any new pie "Aristotle" yet?

Westman:—No. But I heard a man there ask for Plato soup.—Exchange.

—Sentinel: Sorghum boasts that he began at the bottom of the ladder, "remarked the man."

"So he did," replied the other, "and worked his way down."—Wash. Star.

—Life:—I wonder where Mr. and Mrs. Hyfler will put all the people they've invited in that little flat.

Hyfler:—Well, if Hyfler had his way he'd put 'em all under the table.—Life.

—Life:—I'm pleased to see you are better, dear. What was it—Influenza?

Influenza? Why, no, dear. I had influenza when I first came out, when Lady Bikerose and I had that bad time.—Life.

—Life:—Biklin modestly declares he owes the immense fortune he has accumulated to his failures in business.—Buffalo Courier.

—Life:—I think Mr. Slove is horrid! He asked me, Mr. Slove, one evening, and of course I said no. Gladly. What did he do then?

Agnes:—That's just it. He didn't do anything.—Yale Record.

ANIMALS IN EFFIGY.

THE FAMOUS COLLEGE OWNED BY THE SMITHSONIAN.

How Costs Are Made of Hare and Bait Animals.—Proof That the Whole College Have Held Jonah—Of Value to Students and Historians.

Striven along for a distance of 50 yards in the rear of the Smithsonian Institution are blocks of plaster of paris of every imaginable shape, some of large size and others of smaller size, as if to form a zoo. For the most part they look like the refuse of a workshop. Here and there a fragment of another is seen to resemble a part of a fish or other animal, perhaps a tail, or a head with a pair of fore flippers. As a whole they bear the impression of a snake, as if the creature, having buried itself in mud for the winter, had waked from its torpid state and crawled away. Other objects yet more strange are faces and various parts of human body apparently fossilized.

These odd looking things are molds. The Smithsonian Institution has been collecting them for 30 years past, and to some of them have cost a great deal of money. Quite a number have been fetched all the way from Alaska, representing various animals peculiar to the region of the frozen north. If a queer reptile or fish is found anywhere, there is nothing better than to make a cast of it in plaster of paris. This means its capture and its death, but it is a great help for museum purposes.

When, a few years ago, a whale was stranded on the New England coast, Dr. Palmer, taxidermist of the Smithsonian Institution, was sent to make a copy of it in plaster made. This he did—that is to say, he made a mold of the cetacean in plaster, of which he took several barrels full with him, and the paper mache cast was produced afterward in Washington.

Only one-half of the whale was cast, however, representing what might be called the "back" of the animal. This is now hung up in the National Museum. On one side it shows the outside of the creature and from the other side the inside. It was a clergyman, a certain certain long ago, who was steering some members of his flock through the building, and pausing in front of the whale, remarked, pointing to the capacious interior of the great monster, "You see, my dear friends, there was plenty of room for Jonah!"

In such ways the Smithsonian Institution has collected molds and casts of all sorts of

The Morning Star

CROSSED.

Two comedians.

That evening Bloncourt, the son, was to make his first appearance on the stage. Chatterton, the piece, which, though not forgotten, had dropped out of sight and for some years had filled a narrower sphere in the quiet appreciation of home reading, now excited a great rivalry among the actors who were familiar with it without having seen it played were curious to assist at its interpretation—a process in which the audience, the critics, and the actors were all concerned. The piece, which was the most popular of the day, was a comedy, and it was a comedy of the most popular kind. It was a comedy of the most popular kind. It was a comedy of the most popular kind.

It must be admitted that it would be impossible to conceive of a more perfect Chatterton than young Bloncourt made. Son of a great comedian, the young actor had inherited his father's talent, and he was a comedian of the most perfect kind. He was a comedian of the most perfect kind. He was a comedian of the most perfect kind.

It is a fact that no fame is so short lived as that of a comedian. Once he drops out of the public gaze it is all over with him. But in this case, young Bloncourt, who was a comedian of the most perfect kind, was a comedian of the most perfect kind. He was a comedian of the most perfect kind. He was a comedian of the most perfect kind.

Bradshaw's Lecture.

The Money He Made and the Easy Life He Was Leading.

I had lectured in Edinburgh in mid-winter. The audience was small, the profits microscopic. After paying my bill at the Temperance hotel, where I then lived, I had only a few shillings left. I was then in the city of London, where I was to lecture.

From Preston I got with great difficulty to Bolton, handing my black bag to the station master there as a security for my fare for the next day. The lecture commenced at 8, and I, having barely time to run to my lodgings and wash and change, went on to the platform. The lecture was a success, and I was a success.

Prison Missionary—My friend, are you not repentant for your past misdeeds? Convict—Repent nawthin! You better go back to school an' finish y'r education.

THE STAR

The Great Encyclopædia Britannica.

The Encyclopædia Britannica is not only a complete compendium of all knowledge, but it is a dictionary of biography, a record of inventions, a history of discoveries, a calendar of events, a glossary of technical and scientific terms, a collection of mathematical, chemical, and mechanical formulas, a handbook of law, a medical guide.

Best Atlas in the World.

The most thorough and reliable key to business knowledge, a manual of games, sports and amusements, a treasury of statistics, a history of all countries and people, a storehouse of information, a treasury of curious facts, a vade mecum for the household and farm, as for the office and library, a repository of useful information.

The purchase of any Encyclopædia short of the best is not only bad judgment, but worse economy. The STAR will furnish you this, the greatest literary production of the century, at one-third the former price, and on terms so accommodating that none need deny themselves the great advantage of owning this mine of information. Remember that the present is the only time we can call our own. We reserve the privilege of withdrawing this offer at any time.

The Original Price of $3 Per Volume.

Heretofore this work could be obtained only at a great cost—from $125 to $200. It is now, for the first time, placed within reach of the masses. A saving of one-third of the price gives you the never-failing fountain of knowledge. Is it not worth such a slight effort to obtain it?
